The National Brownfields Coalition works to ensure the responsible cleanup and reuse of underutilized or environmentally impacted land. The Coalition believes:

- Protecting public and environmental health is fundamental to the sustainable and equitable cleanup and redevelopment of brownfield sites.
- Multi-sector and community-centered redevelopment – be it in urban, rural, or tribal areas – leads to smarter, more sustainable, and more equitable outcomes.
- By working together across sectors and fields, practitioners are better positioned to organize for maximum impact in order to confront evolving challenges to land reuse and cleanup, such as emerging contaminants and related regulatory responses.

As a member of the National Brownfields Coalition, I affirm that all of the information contained in this application is true and understand that if any of this information is found to be untrue my membership may not be approved or may be revoked.

In addition, by signing below I affirm that my work aligns with the National Brownfield Coalition’s values and that I will uphold and promote transparency and commit that my activities with the coalition will support NBC’s best interest and the advancement of brownfield redevelopment and remediation. This affirmation is to protect the integrity of the NBC’s policy prioritization and decision-making process as well as the integrity of volunteers, staff and Board/Steering Committee members.

NBC Mission Statement

The National Brownfields Coalition is a non-partisan alliance of public interest organizations, academics, as well as public and private sector professionals who develop and advocate for policies and practices that support the responsible cleanup and reuse of underutilized or environmentally impacted land. Our mission is to educate, advocate, and convene stakeholders nationally to advance the social, economic, public health, environmental, and quality of life benefits of environmental cleanup and brownfield reuse for all communities.
